John Moffat Mein was born in 1863 in St Cuthbert's Parish, Edinburgh, Scotland, the son of Henry and Jane Mein. He enlisted in the British Army at Edinburgh on 7th January 1881 and was posted to the 19th Hussars as a private (service number 2097).

Mein served in Egypt and the Sudan as part of the Gordon Relief Expedition and was present at the Battle of Abu Klea. For this service, he was awarded the Egypt Medal with clasps 'The Nile 1881-85' and 'Abu Klea'.

After returning to the United Kingdom, Mein left active service but remained in the Army Reserve. On 1st October 1895, he was reported absent without leave from Bilymerign and was subsequently declared a deserter. His name and description appeared in The Police Gazette on 21st April 1896. He was described as 5 feet 7 inches tall, of pale complexion, with brown hair and hazel eyes. His occupation was listed as photographer, and he was noted to have an old cut on the left thumb and a burn mark on the right foot.

Having left England, Mein travelled to South Africa and entered the Cape Colony. He is noted to have taken part in the Jameson Raid of 1895-1896 in 'B' Troop, before later serving during the Boer War with the 2nd Imperial Light Horse. For his service, he was awarded the Queen's South Africa Medal with clasps "Cape Colony," "Orange Free State," and "Transvaal."

Mein later moved to Rhodesia, where he continued working as a photographer. In 1906 he joined the Manica Lodge in Umtali as a Freemason, resigning in 1908. He subsequently returned to South Africa.

During the Great War, he enlisted once more, joining the King's Royal Rifle Corps. Serving as a rifleman with the 2nd Battalion, he was wounded in action and evacuated to No. 3 Stabilisation Hospital at Rouen, France. He died of his wounds on 9th October 1918 and is buried in St Sever Extension Cemetery, Rouen.

Remarkably, John Moffat Mein died as a combat soldier at the age of 55, having served in three wars and participated in the famous Jameson Raid.
