This brilliant uncirculated Fifty Pence was released ahead of the London 2012 Olympics as part of a series of 29 commemorative coins dedicated to Olympic and Paralympic sports. While the standard Aquatics 50p is fairly common, this example features the rare 'Lines Over Face' variant, in which the watery lines of Jonathan Oliffe's reverse extend over the swimmer's face. On the standard coin, the swimmer's face is unobscured. Only around 600 coins with the variant design are known to have been issued before the artwork was amended. This example is offered sealed in its original card pack and is sold as a key addition to any serious collection of modern British error coins.
